Puccini Museum - Casa Natale.

The museum is located in the apartment, on the second floor of an ancient building in the heart of Lucca, where Giacomo Puccini was born in 1858. In this house the composer lived the years of his childhood and early youth. Transformed into a museum in 1979 and subjected to a careful restoration in 2011, the house lives again today as it did at the time when the young Giacomo lived there. It houses the Steinway & Sons piano on which Puccini composed Turandot, autograph scores of early compositions, letters, paintings, photographs, precious drafts, such as those of the librettos of Tosca, La fanciulla del West and an extraordinary musical sketch of La bohème. The costume of Turandot, worn by Maria Jeritza at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York in 1926, is remarkable. The museum is constantly enriched thanks to purchases and the generosity of private individuals.

The birthplace is the heart of the Puccini Museum, the articulated museum complex that retraces the traces left by the great composer, to rediscover his personality, passions, genius. Dante MEMBERS will be entitled, by showing their card, to a discount of € 1.00 on the prices of museum entrance tickets € 7.00 full and € 5.00 reduced.
